

BLEAKHOUSE PUBLISHING

BleakHouse Fellows

ARCHIVE

(2008-2014)

Aubrey Rose
2013 - 2014

Rose is an honors student at American University studying Law & Society and International Relations. Rose has worked for several legal non-profits, including the Mid-Atlantic Innocence Project and the Capital Litigation Communications Project, and has presented and published scholarly works in professional venues.

Claire Callahan
2012 - 2013

Claire Callahan is an honors student at American University studying Law & Society. A prolific writer with a growing roster of publications that includes work of fiction and non-fiction, she is the author of the award-winning short story "Why the Corrida" an allegory on the death penalty described by one reviewer as a work of "subtle grace and artistry."

Shirin Karimi
2011-2012

Shirin Karimi bridged two seemingly disparate branches of knowledge in her undergraduate years at American University, pursuing the study of medicine while fulfilling her creative side with a major in Literature. Her award-winning book, Enclosures, explores suffering and loss among the ill and imprisoned, and has been described as a work that “brings us close to the heart of what it means to be human.”

Liz Calka
2010-2011

Liz Calka is an undergraduate student at American University majoring in Visual Arts and minoring in Graphic Design. Calka is an award-winning photographer and designer who served as the Art Director for BleakaHouse Publishing. Her portfolio includes books and magazine covers, websites, and several photographic documentary series.

Sonia Tabriz
2009-2010

Sonia Tabriz is an honors student at American University with majors in Law & Society and Psychology. Tabriz is an award-winning and widely published author, editor, and artist. Her publications include an edited book of criminal justice fiction, several stories and poems, magazine and book cover art, and articles in law review and social science journals.

Molly Kenney
2008-2009

Molly Kenney is an honors student at American University and a Truman Scholar. Ms. Kenney is a dedicated student of the death penalty who approaches the conversational topic from a multi-disciplinary perspective. She is a mentor to selected honors students who are examining the death penalty as part of their course of study.